It's Summertime!

June is finally here, and with it comes the long, lazy days of summer! With these long, lazy days also come the two words parents dread to hear, "I'm bored!" So, we have compiled a list of free and inexpensive things you and your children can do this summer to get them out from behind the screen and having fun.

Have a picnic. Have your next meal outside! Put a blanket on the ground and enjoy your meal outdoors. Read a book, or take in the great outdoors.

Make popsicles. Fill cups or ice trays with juice or whatever you have in the fridge. A popsicle on a hot summer day is sure to bring smiles and giggles.

Have a movie night. Pop some popcorn. Put on a movie everyone will enjoy and spend some family time together.

Take a trip to your library. Most libraries have summer activities or reading programs. Some even offer prizes! Be sure to check out a few books while you are there!

Check out playgrounds and parks in your area. There are a lot of great playgrounds and parks to visit in our region. Play on the equipment or take a hike on a nature trail.

Have a water day. Set up sprinklers, turn on the water hose, and let the fun begin!

Start a garden. Plant a seed from a fruit or veggie you have eaten and see if it grows. If it starts growing, plant it in the yard and keep watering it to start your garden.

Have a game night. Let everyone pick out their favorite board game and get competitive!

Wake up early or stay up late to watch the sunrise or sunset. Nothing is more beautiful, so use summertime to slow down life and enjoy all the beauty nature offers.
